How Conner Management Group Selects Stocks Proprietary algorithms support each "selection decision" and are based on value and momentum investing principles. The GMC Value & Momentum Stock Report only selects companies with a minimum 5-year operating history and which trade on a major exchange. Price targets are identified before positions are named. Proprietary algorithms analyze some 4,000 stocks weekly before e-mailing selections to subscribers. Stock selections focus on:

Discovering overlooked "extreme value stocks" Identifying up-and-coming stocks in leading market sectors Providing "sell signals" which include date and target price. "We invite potential subscribers to review our track record," says Conner. "Our work is all about valuation. The results of each of our stock selections can be viewed at our website: www.gmcstockpicks.com ."

Conner Management Group's algorithms have a two-year operating history, providing the basis for its "buy" and/or "sell" decisions, and are used for equity income, value investing, long / short and options portfolio strategies.
