

Kaufman Trailer Finds a New Use

Written by Australian Business

(PRLEAP.COM) May 16, 2014 - Lexington, North Carolina - Kaufman Trailers, a manufacturer of equipment trailers , is excited to announce a new use for their Vehicle trailers.

"As the Vice President of Kaufman Trailers I understand that people can use our product in different ways but using our vehicle trailers as a part of a base for a tiny home is something that's new to me." Says Kaufman Trailer Vice President Chad Blackmon. "The Tiny House movement was something that I was not aware of until recently but it seems to be something that's actually popular and gaining steam around the country."

The tiny house movement is something that's been around the United States, but just recently it started to gain steam. As people are looking to save money and are looking for alternative housing options, the idea of a tiny home as popped up. These homes usually stand from 100 to 500 square feet and contain all of the bare essentials needed to survive including room for a bed and a toiler.

"A tiny home is great for those that are cost efficient and the opportunity to make it mobile using a Kaufman Trailer is actually a great idea."
