

PanelShop.com's infographic outlines the benefits of building electrical control panels online. (PRLEAP.COM) July 8, 2014 - PanelShop.com, your online source for customer driven controls, has recently published an infographic highlighting their online configuration service which saves businesses both time and money while shopping for customized automation products.

The online configurators available at PanelShop.com offers customers with a complete understanding of what they are looking for a quick and easy method to ordering customized products. Rather than dealing with the limitations of a local panel builder, PanelShop.com's service gives customers the ability to achieve quick pricing, top name brand manufacturers and standardized assembly and testing.

Not only does the online configurator offer quick and easy use, but the tool can also save customers money, with most users seeing up to 30 percent in savings for smaller sized panels. By taking your order online, you are able to cut out lengthy and costly phone calls and quoting services. Online configurators also offer customers the opportunity to achieve multiple bids from several manufacturers, saving you both the time and money of searching for the best price available.

By seamlessly choosing base selections, system options and control options, PanelShop.com's configurator converts those selections to produce a vast array of pre-engineered products. Coupled with their 55,000 sq. ft. facility, PanelShop.com has the tools to build your product no matter how big or small.

Using PanelShop.com's online configurator can provide you with an instant price that saves your business valuable time and helps you to solve your automation needs as quickly as possible. With a support system of highly trained and skilled engineers on-hand to assist you, building your customized products is quick and easier than ever. To learn more about how online configurators can save your business time and money, view the full infographic at <http://panelshop.com/saving-time-money-using-online-configurator/>

Online Configurator's Saving Both Time Money

Written by Australian Business

PanelShop.com provides customers with the ability to browse, build and buy any one of their automation products 24/7. With their three tiered testing system, PanelShop.com guarantees that your panel is manufactured and assembled to the highest degree of quality. Lastly, with a knowledgeable and experienced staff, PanelShop.com can build to many domestic and international specs such as UL, CE, CSA and more! Start building your customized electrical control panel today at <http://panelshop.com>.