

August 4, 2014 - Providing the employees with proactive pest education can help in supporting the pest management process especially in food processing facilities. Learn how basic pest knowledge allows employees to practise preventive measures before pest infestation happens.