

Employees of IT Staffing Company Optomi Spend Workday Helping Others

Written by Australian Business

Optomi is hosting its annual charitable Opt-to-Give event, making a significant impact in communities nationwide on the anniversary of the business being established. On November 5th, the company's employees go out into their communities to spend the workday serving charitable organizations. Dedication to its people and their local communities