

Svoflex provides a "highway" for transferring large volumes of data

Written by Business News

---

Svoflex provides a "highway" for transferring large volumes of data at very high rates between the various chips that are integrated in the servers, data-processing centers and super computers. So far, the technological application has broken through the recognized limitations by means of heavy data transfer with traditional communication connectors that carry a heavy price tag.