

National Debt Relief Dispels Myths About Credit Scores

Written by Business News

National Debt Relief recently talked about in an article published January 30, 2015 how consumers may believe some credit score myths. The article explains some of the most common myths about credit scores that people may be led to believe which can ultimately hurt their finances even more.