The technology recruiting & consulting company placed #587 out of 5,000 for fast growth in the U.S., #64 for IT services companies and #12 for Seattle metro companies. Inc. will celebrate WideNet and the other fastest growing companies at a ceremony October 10 – 12, 2013, in Washington, D.C.

In each of the last three years WideNet Consulting has achieved greater than 100% annual revenue growth. The firm started in 2009 with only two employees, and has since grown to 20 internal and more than 100 consultants.

"Growth is great and it's a pleasure to be rated so highly, but we never lose sight of the fact that our success depends on people – clients, consultants and our own employees," said Kory Avaiusini, WideNet CEO & Managing Partner. "We're in the relationship building business, working with industry-leading, Puget Sound businesses to identify business needs and provide the right resources to deliver on those needs. Our in depth understanding of our clients enables us to be an ongoing partner with them: not just for today, or next year, but we work to build long-term relationships."

WideNet offers a number of different services, from technical staffing to professional services. The firm concentrates on technical recruiting, specifically middle- to upper-level positions, which allows for focused and high quality searches and results for candidates and employers. Among its more than 100 clients are Colliers International, Starbucks, Seattle Children's Hospital, Nordstrom, Alaska Airlines, PATH and The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, along with many leading high-tech, gaming, healthcare and financial services companies in the Seattle area.
