TORONTO, Oct. 10, 2013 /CNW/ - #AmellWednesday on CTV is home to Wednesday night's most-watched television programs as the broadcaster took four of the top five programs among total viewers and all key adult demos, including the series and season premieres of

THE TOMORROW PEOPLE

ARROW

. While the superhuman cousin duo lift CTV's 2013 fall Wednesday night lineup, proven performers

CRIMINAL MINDS

and

CSI

both saw double digit increases as the competition declined.

A closer look at Wednesday night:

- At 7 p.m., the series premiere of THE TOMORROW PEOPLE drew a solid 1.35 million viewers, winning its timeslot among all viewers and all key demographics. 7 p.m.
- At 8 p.m., ARROW returned with 1.5 million viewers and led the night among M18-34, and its timeslot competitor SURVIVOR among M18-34 and M18-49.

- At 9 p.m., up 15% from the previous week, CRIMINAL MINDS was Wednesday's ratings leader with 2.3 million viewers, leading nationally with total viewers and all key demos.
