Hiatus Kaiyote exhibits their "slinky grooves," as detailed by Time Out NY to The Arsenio Hall Show on October 28 and KCRW's Morning Becomes Eclectic on October 30, before kicking off their Fall tour at the Skirball Cultural Center in Los Angeles, CA, followed by stops in San Francisco, San Jose, Sacramento, Brooklyn, Boston, Washington DC and Philadelphia.

In a little under two years, Hiatus Kaiyote has gained legions of fans from all over the world including highly-respected artists like Questlove, Flying Lotus and Erykah Badu, plus tastemakers and audiophiles like

London

-based DJ

Gilles Peterson

, Stereogum

Wax Poetics

(where they were recently featured the cover along with Little Dragon). The band attracts such a diverse following because the music doesn't fit within the boundaries of a single genre. Each track is like a key ingredient in the listening experience that adds to a fusion of jazz, hip-hop, electronic, opera, rock and soul.
