

( PRLEAP.COM ) "Nursery Rhymes Revisited," a new book by Wes Randolph, has been released by RoseDog Books.

Wes Randolph retired as an elementary school principal in 1988 and has been rhyming his reactions to the world around him ever since. Most of the eclectic collections of rhymes he created have been for his own amusement, but some that seemed to have the potential for a wider audience are included in this book. As he says, there are more where these came from, but they remain to be seen... and, hopefully, read. His book contains many four or five line nonsense rhymes that can join or replace some equally nonsensical ones children have enjoyed for generations. Others are longer pseudo-scientific descriptions of members of the insect or animal world. His wry wit comes through in his rhymes and he hopes they will provide as much pleasure for others as he enjoyed creating them.

About the Author:Wes Randolph has reached an age in which memories of his childhood come to mind more readily than this morning's breakfast menu, but this may not be a handicap for him since his next book of verses will be entitled "YESTERDAY WHEN I WAS YOUNG."Randolph resides in Grover Beach, California, with his wife of twenty-five years, four Chihuahuas and two Bourke's parakeets.

"Nursery Rhymes Revisited" is a 70-page hardcover with a retail price of $21.00. The ISBN is 978-1-4809-0600-6. It was published by Dorrance Publishing Co., Inc of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. For more information, or to request a review copy, please go to our virtual pressroom at www.dorrancepressroom.com or our online bookstore at www.dorrancebookstore.com