Written by Australian Business

(PRLEAP.COM) "Angel of Marble," a new book by Caity Adams, has been released by Dorrance Publishing Co., Inc.

"Something from deep within haunted me like a nightmare. When I closed my eyes to try to suppress it, I failed to do so. It's almost as if it wasn't even a dream. It was a part of me; this memory breathed with me and sounded in every heartbeat. My eyes were its windows and the world its reflection, which mirrored it back to my soul. Was it he who told me I had to be brave? Or was it my mind begging me to press forward? I could not remember now. Time had erased all meaning to my memories, but this one that lay so deeply within the corridors of my mind could not be forgotten. The things that I had seen and lived through were more than any mind could ever want to perceive. But even I could not understand the ramifications of this gift that lay so heavily on my soul. I had a warm and tender past, but my future held nothing but a cold and rigid truth."

Allison Golden is a normal teenager, having normal teenage issues and dramas, such as liking the new boy in school, who doesn't seem to like her. This baffles her. She isn't used to being ignored by the male population of her school. But little does she know that this is the least of her worries. She has a normal family life, and she deeply loves everyone in her family-her parents, her sisters, and her brother. Yet it all came crashing down one day when she wakes up to find that her sister Amy, whom she shares a room with, isn't there. This is the catalyst that spins her once-normal world into chaos, pain, and heartache.
