

VANCOUVER, British Columbia--( BUSINESS WIRE )--Newnote Financial Corp. (the “Company”) (CSE: NEU; FSE: 1W4) is pleased to announce that its cloud hashing service ‘Newnote Miners’ is now live and accepting Bitcoin, Litecoin and Dogecoin for hashing power.

Cloud hashing enables users to participate in Bitcoin mining without having to purchase and maintain expensive hardware. Even though the cloud hashing business is still in its infancy, it has become a multi-million dollar global business. Industry experts expect cloud hashing to grow substantially as Bitcoin prices appreciate, driving further interest from individuals and companies who wish to mine Bitcoin.

Paul Dickson, President and CEO states: “We’ve just made Newnote Miners available to the public and are currently accepting Bitcoin, Litecoin and Dogecoin as payment for contracts. Our rates are more than competitive and we expect the crypto-currency community to be pleased with what we’ve created. Our pricing model is designed to ensure profitability for the subscriber at the time of purchase.”

Newnote Miners cloud hashing software is designed to distribute Bitcoin to subscribers based on purchased hashing power. Users may purchase a contract for one day or 24 months and may choose from one gigahash to multiple terahashes with no need for hardware or technical expertise. Individuals wishing to buy cloud hashing services can go to the Newnote Miners website: <http://www.newnoteminers.com/>.
