PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- Fiberlink, the leader in cloud-based enterprise mobility management (EMM), today announced the expansion of its MaaS360 platform to support iOS 7, Apple's latest mobile operating system. With this highly anticipated release, MaaS360 customers now have instant access to new features that enable productivity while protecting company information.

MaaS360 and iOS 7 now include many enhancements for businesses to deploy devices faster, secure data better, and provide a seamless experience for IT and employees. Key features include separation of corporate and personal data, per app VPN for secure communication, remote configuration of apps, and Single Sign On for enterprise apps.

As employees update their iPhones and iPads, it's critical for businesses to be able to immediately embrace iOS 7 when it becomes available without impacting security or functionality. MaaS360 provides real-time support without the need for customers to perform time-consuming server upgrades or schedule maintenance outages. This allows companies to focus their efforts on leveraging these new features as part of a broader enterprise mobile strategy.

"Our customers rely on MaaS360 to provide same-day support when new mobile operating systems are released," said Jim Szafranski, senior vice president of product management at Fiberlink. "We make it extremely simple for customers to adopt iOS 7 in their organization and take full advantage of the new enterprise features."

On Thursday, September 19, Fiberlink will host a webinar to help businesses understand how to evaluate and leverage the new features of iOS 7. Further details on the session can be found here: www.maas360.com/ios7
