(PRLEAP.COM) June 23, 2014 - Thanks to OStraining, building impressive websites isn't just for 11-year-olds anymore. You can learn what it takes to put your own website online – even if you think a "pixel" is a short haircut and you don't own a pocket protector. OStraining can teach you all the tricks of website creation in any of several different formats.

WordPress is one of the most popular, powerful and simple programs for building impressive websites. You can waste your time teaching yourself or save time by taking these OStraining online video courses. You'll learn more, make fewer mistakes and get on the Web faster.

Drupal is the choice of major corporations (Sony and the New York Stock Exchange, for example) and various government departments, including WhiteHouse.gov. OStraining's Online Video Training will help you get the most out of this flexible and sophisticated software. This course is vital if you are planning to form your own country.

Joomla! might sound like a child's first word, but to website designers there is no sweeter name in any language. Joomla! offers more than 10,000 extensions and even more templates for profoundly beautiful and functional websites for any sized application.
